

What Does It Mean To Be An LFC Worker?

Workers are needed in every skill level: from construction professionals to relative beginners. LFC appreciates carpenters, electricians, plumbers, handymen (and handywomen), and anyone with a heart for the Lord and His work.

Opportunities to witness happen often as you work among people of faith. Through LFC, you keep in shape mentally, physically, spiritually; take part in congregational activities; travel to new destinations; and meet new people.

Retirees help make dreams become realities for organizations, as well as extend their own active work lives.

Knowledge that you glorify God by serving Him with the talents He has given you occurs.

Experience the joy of knowing you are doing something worthwhile and have the interest of the organization at heart.

Refocus on building for God's Kingdom while living on the project site in an RV. Return home in approximately three to four months when your work is done. Remember the wonderful times and look forward to the next project.

Serve the Church-at-large as you follow the Spirit and respond.

The mission of Laborers For Christ is to assist LCMS congregations and organizations with the process of constructing their facilities while providing an opportunity for spiritual renewal within the congregation and a witness to the community.

The mission of the Lutheran Church Extension Fund is to provide opportunity to make funds and services available in support of the Great Commission through The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Building for Eternity

*"Send and use me,
Lord, in this ministry
as a Laborer For Christ. You are the Builder . . .
I am the tool!"*

In Retirement, But Not Retired?

As a valued member of Christ's family, you have real-life experiences and skills that can help others further God's Kingdom. If you are in retirement—but not retired—you may find Laborers For Christ the perfect outlet for your restless hands and open heart.

Laborers For Christ (LFC) is an organized group of dedicated Christian men and women who use a portion of their retirement time to help the congregations, schools, and social ministries of The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod build, expand or improve these organizations' facilities. As a vital service provided by the Lutheran Church Extension Fund, Laborers For Christ continues to forge ahead in the commitment to provide "space and place" for ministry, assisting in more than 650 LCMS building projects since LFC was established in 1980.

The name "Laborers For Christ" means exactly what it says. People—both men and women—who do project management and construction by working as employees of LCMS organizations, helping them build churches, schools, parish halls, retirement homes, camp facilities, etc. These Laborers have a love for the Lord and enjoy building up His Kingdom—literally!

Who Are These Laborers?

The Laborers are retired individuals who come from all walks of life. Those with experience help those with less experience. Christian principles are applied on the construction site, and each worker does what he or she can. Laborers For Christ workers work for LCMS organizations to build the ministries' facilities.

Most Laborers have a recreational vehicle (RV) that they move to the work site for the duration of the project. If the Laborer does not have an RV, the participating organization may be able to help locate housing.

Today, there are hundreds of Laborers on the official roster of the Laborers For Christ program. Some are part-time, working on one or two projects a year. Others are full-time, working in the northern part of the country during the summer and in the South during the winter.

Wanted . . .

Dedicated workers who desire to bring fulfillment and meaning to their retirement by putting their skills and love for Christ into action for God's Kingdom.
